REDS DRIVEN OUT OF LABOR

Taft Says New Law Sending Them from U. S. Ranks Into Canada.

By The Associated Press

GARY, IND., Feb. 11 — The Taft-Hartley law is driving Communists out of American and into Canadian unions, Senator Taft (R-O) declared here today.

The Ohioan brought his campaign for GOP presidential delegate support to this organized labor stronghold after hearing Illinois audiences applaud to his demand for a federal tax cut.

Declaring that Communists had found their easiest road to infiltration in unions, Taft told Gary service clubs in a prepared address:

Today those Communist members are resigning, as one did this week in Washington. My Canadian friends tell me that several leading unions there are being swamped with Communists who have left the United States because they no longer can make use of their device of infiltration."

Taft did not otherwise identify the union official to whom he referred.

But he voiced a new challenge to labor leaders seeking repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

"The heads of some of the national unions got themselves out on a limb in their denunciation of the law and now they cannot afford to admit the mistake they have made," he declared.

"They still are threatening to collect millions of dollars from labor union members and to defeat every senator and congressman who voted for the law.

"The threats now sound empty and certainly they are in vain."

Taft, who expressed himself as "pleased" that he has a chance for the ultimate support of Illinois' 56 convention delegates, was expected to sound out Indiana sentiment. The latter state's 29 votes may go to house Republican Leader Halleck as a "favorite son" in the early balloting.

Trader Makes Rich Haul in Price Slip

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said today E. T. Maynard, a Chicago trader, made several hundred thousand dollars profit on the price breaks in wheat and oats.

Anderson told the senate agriculture committee that Maynard had "no inside information" and that "no corruption" is involved.

"We wish we had him on our staff," the secretary said, when asked how Maynard had called the ups and downs of the recent price movements.

Anderson identified Maynard as a member of the Chicago board of trade who bought and sold more than 1,000,000 bushels of wheat this month. The secretary supplied Maynard's name after Senator Young (R-ND) demanded it be made public. Young said Maynard had made $400,000 profit on the market break.

Anderson blamed the "boom and bust" market on mass speculation by small traders.

Wants Higher Margin

He asked the senate agriculture committee to approve a bill that would allow the agriculture department to fix the amount of margin required for speculative trading.

Local exchanges now set the margins, or down payment, required of commodity traders.

Anderson said control of margins "to cool the speculative fever before it is too late is the only remedy we can see as a possible alternative to more drastic measures."

He recalled that he and President Truman have been demanding increased margins on speculative trading for many months and that speculators and exchange officials have been opposed.

Referring to price breaks on commodity markets, Anderson said:

"The type of market behavior we have witnessed recently is exactly what was feared when 25 per cent margins were first suggested in March, 1946.

"Had such margins been imposed at that time, and maintained without interruption, the boom and bust market might have been averted."

Anderson said that Maynard held 1,000,000 bushels of July wheat futures on the short side and when wheat dropped made profits of about $200,000.

Dealt in Oats Futures

Then Maynard went into oats futures, Anderson said, and bought and sold them to make another big profit as the market moved up at first and then down.

"He had no information from us," the secretary said, adding that if Maynard had asked the advice of government officials on buying oats in a declining market they would have told him to just the opposite.

That was an apparent reference to charges by Chairman Andresen (R-Minn) of the house investigating committee, that there had been a leak on the government's grain buying plans.

Andreson said in a statement today that Anderson was trying to throw a smoke screen" around the alleged leaks. Anderson has repeatedly denied any advance tipoff on the market drops and has accused Andreson of "politics" in making the charges.

POPE PIUS DELIVERS LENTEN MESSAGE

By The Associated Press

ROME, Feb. 11—Pope Pius XII said today that "our world will not be happy" unless the peoples of all nations are united by love.

His message was directed to parochial school children of the United States, but he said Christ's fundamental philosophy of love applied equally "whether we are young or old, parents or teachers, priests or bishops, presidents or kings, or just plain children."

In an Ash Wednesday address prepared for delivery over the Vatican city radio, the Pope appealed to Catholic children to "pray" and "sacrifice" for war-needy children of Europe during lent, which begins today.

The Pope said that Christ's "one great lesson of love" was one "we cannot learn from books," but one "children can easily understand." He added:

"You will not be happy and our world will not be happy, you can almost hear him say to the children as they gather about him in the green meadows of Galilee, 'unless you love one another; unless you love every one of your neighbors near and far, whatever may be the color of his skin, the country he lives in, the language he speaks; unless you love him all the more, the more he needs your love; unless you love him well enough to pray for him, to suffer a little and save a little for him sometimes, when you know he is in trouble.'"

BRITISH-MADE FORDS TO BE SOLD IN U.S.

By The United Press

LONDON, Feb. 11—Henry Ford II was scheduled to drive a British-made Ford off the assembly line of the Ford Dagenham plant today to inaugurate an export program to the United States.

The car will be the first of 6,000 British-made Ford vehicles scheduled for export to the United States within the next six months. The program will bring the British about $4,500,000.

Ford and Mrs. Ford arrived in England yesterday aboard the luxury liner Queen Mary. They will leave Feb. 18 for visits to Ford plants in France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Germany and Sweden.

Ford said he hoped Americans will like the British-built Ford, a smaller car than the American-made machine.

He said all previous records for monthly exports at the Dagenham plant were broken in January, when 7,200 vehicles were exported. Production last year was 114,872 vehicles, he said.

"This country looks in pretty good shape to me," Ford told British reporters.

Gandhi Death Arrest Made

Politician Accused of Conferring with Slayer Before Assassination.

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY, Feb 11—Police said today they have jailed a Bombay politician accused of a pre-assassination conference with the man held for killing Mahandas K. Gandhi.

The politician was not identified.

Police said they had information that the killing of Gandhi Jan 30 was part of a plot by an underground Hindu volunteer corps to kill government leaders. The organization is known as the Hindu Dal, they said.

The information, police reported, came from Madan Lal, a young Punjab refugee accused of exploding a homemade bomb near a Gandhi prayer meeting Jan 20. They said Lal and N. V. Godse, in jail at New Delhi accused of shooting Gandhi, conferred at the home of the Bombay politician and that Godse then took Lal to New Delhi.

Lal's bomb was intended, police said, to kill Gandhi. Instead it exploded harmlessly.

Police said the Hindu Dal planned to kill not only Gandhi, but Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, and Education Minister Maulana Abdul Kalam Azad.

After such assassinations police said the Hindu Dal expected to force Deputy Prime Minister Sardar Vallabhai Patel into retirement.

RISE IN TEMPERATURE EASES GAS SHORTAGE

Broken Gas Line Forces Closing of Center Street Shops.

The fuel gas situation in Marion and area, supplied by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., was eased up somewhat today with slightly warmer temperatures setting in, a check with the local Gas Co. office manager, Charles E. Sechrist, showed. Gas pressures were extremely low the first two days of the week when thermometers registered near zero, but were built up during the night as the mercury began to rise.

Snow tonight and milder with rain or snow Thursday was the forecast issued today by the Columbus weather bureau. With this warmer weather is expected to come a break in the gas emergency.

Small industries and commercial users were notified today, Mr. Sechrist said, that they could go back to using gas, but were still asked to conserve as much as possible.

A leakage in a gas line on East Center street between Main and State streets yesterday afternoon which supplies the Midway restaurant, the Anson Pickerel Clothing store and Ansley's Tailor shop, located above the clothing store, forced the closing of these establishments. Mr. Sechrist reported that men had been working last night and today to renew the line, and that service was expected to be restored this afternoon. The manager of Midway-restaurant said they expected to reopen for regular business at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Customers of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. using gas in homes and business establishments are being asked by company officials to make every saving possible in their uses of gas for heating, cooking and water heating. Heating customers especially are warned to lower temperatures to 65 degrees and to close off all rooms from heating that are not absolutely needed.

Kilns Hot Again At Burned-Out Pottery

By The Associated Press

SCIO, O., Feb. 11—The kilns are hot and the Scio-Ohio Pottery Co. will meet its Friday deadline for reopening.

When fire destroyed a large section of the plant on Dec. 11, owner L. P. Reese estimated property loss at $1,500,000. He set Feb. 13 as the date for getting back into operation, because it was the 15th anniversary of the day he started his first kiln here. The pottery is this Harrison county village's only industry, employing about 800.

Except for some help on the steel framework, most of the rebuilding has been done by the pottery workers. Three kilns were lighted Sunday for the slow process of bringing them up to 2,100 degrees by Friday.

A civic celebration Friday afternoon and evening will mark the resumption of production. Rep. Earl R. Lewis (R) of the 18th district will be the principal speaker.

GRAIN PRICES, STOCKS STILL SLIDE LOWER

Chicago Pit Quotations Down Limit While Securities Retreat Slackens.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb 11 — Grain prices came under selling pressure as the Chicago pits opened today and stocks skidded again, although more slowly than in yesterday's wide bread break.

It was a week ago today that rising prices had their first decisive drop.

All deliveries of wheat, soybeans and corn fell the limit within a few minutes after trading started.

Hog prices started 50 to 75 cents a hundred pounds higher with the top $23.25 as arrivals were the smallest for a Wednesday since October 9, 1946, the last week of ceiling prices.

Reactions to the price breaks which were violent in commodity and security markets alike yesterday, are being felt around the world.

London stocks slumped. Leading issues on the Manila stock exchange were down fractions to $2, and at Sydney, Australia, share values fell as much as 10 per cent.

Cotton prices at New Orleans fell more than $10 a bale at the opening.

The housewife, meanwhile, is paying less for meats, flour, butter and sugar.

An Associated Press survey of retail prices in 25 leading cities shows the consumer today is enjoying appreciable markdowns in grocery stores across the nation.

Bacon Down 10 Cents

Bacon costs the housewife 10 cents a pound less than a week ago. A ten-pound sack of flour is a dime less. Many meats are down 5 to 6 cents a pound.

Butter is down 4 to 5 cents a pound; lard is 5 to 6 cents a pound less, and shortening has dropped two cents a pound.

Now the consumer wants to know whether the price cuts are here to stay and what other items will be affected.

He is certain of one thing—the price declines are not going to spread to men's worsted suits. The American Woolen Company has announced an 8 to 12 per cent boost on such fabrics for next fall.

Some food retailers say, however, further reductions are in sight. Most analysts think cheaper food prices are here to stay.

The wholesale meat market at Chicago fell yesterday as much as $4 a hundred pounds.

It was part of a general slump that was worse than any day last week.

The nose-dive that started in corn last Wednesday spread with renewed violence to all commodity and security markets yesterday.

Record Stock Day

Never before have so many issues been traded on the New York stock exchange. There was

INDICT CIO IN TEST OF LAW

Murray Also Named in Charge of Taft-Hartley Act Violation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11— A federal grand jury today indicted the CIO and its president, Philip Murray, on charges of violating the Taft-Hartley act's political expenditures ban.

The law forbids spending of union funds for political purposes.

The indictment charges that Murray published an endorsement for a Maryland congressional candidate last July in the union-financed CIO news.

Murray and the CIO have openly defied the law and invited prosecution. They contend congress had no right to enact it—that it conflicts with the Constitution's guarantee of freedom of speech.

If the courts should find there is such a conflict, that section of the Taft-Hartley act would become void.

Attorney General Tom Clark issued a statement in connection with the indictment recognizing that there is a delicate Constitutional question.

He said the political expenditure ban "can present a problem in the accommodation of the constitutional power of the congress to regulate federal elections with the constitutional freedoms of speech and the press.

But he said the justice department "will, of course, enforce the statute as it is written."

Clark also said the Justice department is preparing additional prosecutions under the Taft-Hartley act. It was indicated these, too, will concern the act's political expenditures ban.

The grand jury sent the indictment to U. S. District Judge Richmond B. Keech.

Murray, born in Scotland 61 years ago, long has been one of the nation's best known labor leaders.

He was traveling between Cleveland and Pittsburgh today. The CIO headquarters staff was trying to communicate with him. Until he is reached, CIO officials said, there will be no comment.

Marion - Salamanca Run First To Get New Equipment.

Special to The Star

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11 — The Erie Railroad has initiated the most comprehensive main line installation of very-high-frequency radio-telephone equipment yet undertaken by any railroad, it was announced today by R. E. Woodruff, Erie president.

The railroad already has begun installation of the radio system on its Kent, Mahoning and Meadville divisions, Mr. Woodruff said, to provide complete coverage over more than 300 miles of main-line trackage between Marion, O., and Salamanca, N. Y. Complete installation with full operation is expected by May first.

Sending and receiving stations will be set up in the west yard at Marion and also at Mansfield.

Equipment used in the system is being delivered by the Farnsworth Television & Radio Corporation, Fort Wayne, Ind.

All main-line diesel passenger and diesel freight locomotives operating over these three divisions of the Erie will be radio-equipped, Mr. Woodruff said. In equipping both cabs of seven three-unit passenger locomotives and nine four-unit freight locomotives as well as 15 cabooses, a total of 47 mobile radio installations will be made. In addition, 14 wayside offices will be equipped to provide complete radio coverage.

Constant Communication

This radio-telephone system will permit instantaneous and constant communication between the engineer in the cab and the train conductor in the caboose, as well as by both of them with wayside offices, train dispatchers and crew members of other radio-equipped trains.

The Erie's proposed plan will utilize only very-high-frequency space radio-telephone circuits for fixed point-to-train and front-to-rear train communications. In most main line radio-telephone installations made to date by other railroads for operating purposes, it has been considered necessary to use inductive-type circuits as well as very-high-frequency circuits to provide comparable fixed point-to-train communications coverage. The Erie plan also includes the use of walkie-talkie radio sets for head-end and rear-end communication on both freight and passenger trains.

18-Months of Study

Mr. Woodruff pointed out that the Erie installation was being made after 18-months of joint development work by Erie communications engineers and the Farnsworth mobile communications division. Special equipment and control circuits had to be devised before the complete coverage by high-frequency circuits over the long trackage could be economically and reliably established.

During this development period, operating studies were made to determine the increased operating efficiency and safety features which might result from the comprehensive use of radio-telephone circuits over the three Erie divisions on which the equipment is now being installed. The results of these surveys, according to Mr. Woodruff, "completely justify making the substantial financial investment involved from the standpoint of increased safety and operating efficiency."

BOATMEN ALERTED FOR ICE JAM BREAKUP

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Feb. 11 — Ohio river boat owners were alerted today for a possible major break-up in the river ice jam here as the stream continued to rise slowly amid predictions of warmer weather.

Two minor breaks in the pack of ice occurred last night and Ohio river division engineers said indications were that a "major crack-up seems to be developing."

A seven-mile stretch of ice broke up at suburban North Bend, just below Cincinnati, and carried four empty fuel barges 100 yards downstream.

Another ice movement started late in the evening at Chilo, O., 20 miles upstream, but ground to a halt after traveling only a short distance.

Back of Post-War Inflation Broken, U. S. Economists Say

By HARRY T. MONTGOMERY

Associated Press General Business Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—The post-war inflation has had its back broken, and the American consumer can sit back today and say to himself, "so far, so good."

This is the big conclusion to be drawn to date from the spectacular break in commodity prices which began just a week ago. Now there are other things to think about.

Is a recession at hand? Will it be brought on by panic selling? What will check it? How far can these commodity prices plunge and still leave us with just a healthy readjustment?

The top business brains of the country pondered these questions today, and most analysts viewed the situation with confidence.

First it must be recognized that wherever there is room for panic, wherever people act in the mass as they do on the nation's great trading markets, then anything can happen. The psychological factor is the joker in the economist's deck of cards. It is the big unknown which most frequently upsets his predictions.

Decline Was Overdue

After allowance is made for this however, the economists find plenty of room to view the situation calmly. This is what they see:

The shakedown in commodities was overdue. Now it has come. But the nation's economy as a whole is too strong to be stampeded at this time into a severe recession or depression. There are too many jobs yet to be done, too many things that people need and won't be able to get for some time.

The farmer has seen his best prices. Food must be cheaper now that the rest of the world is beginning to take care of itself. With food cheaper, other retail prices should come down gradually.

But we still can't get enough steel, or enough of many of the things made of it. Nor enough oil.

All we have to do is to leave the ultimate consumer with enough money to buy these things. The speeding inflation of the past six months was draining the consumer of money. Too much of it would have spelled the disaster of an economic crash.

But—barring panic—that crash now can be avoided. The world as a whole is far from over-producing, and it has 10 per cent more inhabitants than it did before the war. There should be plenty of work for everyone.

Since we have all wanted an

HONOR CHURCH USHER FOR 50-YR. SERVICE

Recognition Dinner Held for C. Z. Zachman.

For 50 years of service as an usher of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, Cicero Z. Zachman was honored at a meeting of the church ushers last Thursday night at Greenwood Inn. Members of the ushers' group and their wives were present, with Rev. R. W. Faulkner, pastor, and Mrs. Faulkner as guests. Dinner was served at 6:30, and following dinner Rev. Faulkner led a brief period of devotions, then on behalf of the church presented Mr. Zachman a certificate of recognition of his service to the church in the capacity of usher. In addition Mr. Zachman was presented a gift. The dinner and program were followed by a social hour of games. Arrangements were in charge of J. W. Baker, head usher.

After presentation of the certificate and gift, Mr. Zachman spoke in appreciation and remarked on his experiences in carrying out his usher's duties. He began this work during the pastorate of Rev. Josiah Wengerd, who came to the church in 1897 when it was a mission, and first was usher in the original church building which had been erected in 1884 and dedicated in 1885.

From the time of Mr. Zachman's first affiliation with the church to the present, he has served as usher during pastorates of more than a dozen ministers, and he has seen the church grow from its first mission status to a large congregation. The church became a self supporting station in 1904. In 1901, the original church, in which Mr. Zachman began his ushering duties, was rebuilt and enlarged. He has been ushering in the present church building since it was erected and dedicated in 1918.

Present with Mr. and Mrs. Zachman, besides Rev. and Mrs. Faulkner, were Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Greenbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Scharer, Mr. and Mrs Ed Sprow, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hinamon and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Coleman.

Lenten Self-Denial

Mark 8:34. "If any man would come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me."

SELF DENIAL in some form is always associated with the Lenten season. It is an essential part of the gospel.

Christ knows what self-denial means. The Christian, if he is to learn of Christ and follow Him, must deny himself and say "no" to some things.

In a rich country like ours, feasting rather than fasting betrays the natural tendency of the old selfish Ego, while multitudes of people overseas are slowly starving to death for lack of food and clothing and adequate housing. Little attention is paid to Christ's warning in Matthew 25, verses 31 to 46. "Depart from Me, for I was hungry and you gave Me no food, naked and you did not clothe Me, a stranger and you did not welcome Me (to your shores)." This is one aspect of self-denial which we cannot ignore with impunity.

"If everyone saves just a little ... there'll be enough for all"

"IF I DIDN'T KNOW how neighborly folks could be—maybe I'd lose more sleep about this pinch in fuel oil and gasoline.

"But I figure most people will react same as you and me. Even with the oil companies producing 180 million barrels a year more than they did in the peak war year, there still isn't enough to go around.

"Okay, we'll make it go 'round. We'll stretch what we have until the big expansion programs the oil companies are racing ahead with are completed.

"The company I know most about is my own—The Ohio Oil Company. And I know we're putting millions of dollars into new wells, new equipment . . . modernizing and expanding pipelines and refineries. Maybe you've heard about the new refinery. When it's finished—and it should be, before next winter—it's going to help plenty, here in the Midwest.

"Meanwhile, it's like I said: 'If everybody saves just a little, there'll be enough for all.'"

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP

If you heat with oil:

1. Keep room temperatures no higher than 68°. Turn thermostat to 60° or below at night.
2. Keep doors and windows closed. Close off rooms not in use. Draw shades at night.
3. Install storm windows and insulation.
4. Have your heating system checked to be sure it's operating efficiently.

If you own a car:

1. Drive only when necessary. Avoid long trips.
2. Don't drive at high speeds.
3. Avoid "Jack Rabbit" starts. Shut off engine except when driving.
4. Keep tires properly inflated. Have your car serviced regularly.

Radio-Active Iodine Saved Man Near Death from Cancer

Iodine Used in 1944

The Memorial scientists were able to get a little of the radio-active iodine in 1944 and they found that the distant tumors collected the radioactive substance.

Adequate treatment, however, could not be started because of a lack of adequate amounts of radioactive iodine.

Meanwhile, the patient was losing strength and by September of 1946 weighed only 86 pounds. He was considered a dying man. At about that time radioactive iodine began arriving from the uranium ovens of Oak Ridge, Tenn.

A Memorial scientist in reporting on this case said:

"It was obvious that unless treatment would be promptly effective, the patient might soon be dead."

First Large Dose

In October of 1946 the patient received his first large dose of radioactive iodine. It was 60 millicuries, taken in water. In such an amount, atoms were disintegrating at the rate of 2,200,000,000 per second. Seven days later he was given a dose of 121 millicuries in water. Such an extremely large dose was emitting radiation from the disintregration of 4,477,000,000 atoms per second.

After the first two heavy doses of radioactive iodine, the patient suffered severe — almost fatal complications, but the crisis was overcome by prompt work of the Memorial thyroid team. One of the complications is known technically as throtoxicosis, which results from an excess amount of thyroid hormone in the body.

One of the reactions was unique. It gave the patient an enormous appetite. He clamored for food virtually around the clock. It was not uncommon for the patient at the middle of the night to call for food. There were instances around midnight when he ate three whole pies and drank several glasses of orange juice.

However, there was considerable regression of the cancers.

Treatment to prevent recurrence of complications was given over a period of 76 days. Then another large dose of radioactive iodine was administered. This time there was no unfavorable reaction, but there was further improvement.

A Memorial report on this case says:

"The patient has now been discharged to his home having gained about 55 pounds of weight and being free from pain, except for occasional twinges in the left leg."

This man now is able to drive an automobile and do odd jobs about the house. He still must use crutches, however, because the large tumor in his right pelvic area had almost obliterated all normal structures. His improvement has been described as:

"Of a high order of magnitude."

This patient is an outstanding case at Memorial where radio-active iodine really has proved itself to be a key unlocking one of the doors to the cancer problem.

SCHOOL POPULATION TO HIT 1953 PEAK

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 11—More schools and elementary teachers are a "must" for Ohio, says State Education Director Clyde Hissong.

Hissong reported Monday elementary schools now have an enrollment of 900,000 and "this is expected to reach almost 1,500,000 by 1953."

Increased enrollment will, in many communities, necessitate additional classrooms," he added.

The education chief said elementary teachers are not being trained fast enough to replace losses," much less to cope with the problem of overcrowding and replacing of undertrained teachers."

Hissong cited a study just completed by Herold J. Bowers, supervisor of teacher education and certification.

The study showed first grade enrollment now is 126,000, highest since 1932, and rising steadily. The survey estimated 1953 first grade enrollment at 206,000, an all-time high.

Bowers also reported 18,447 Ohio college students are preparing to teach.

Landlord Exacts Bonus From Gold Star Mother

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 — A Chicago landlord is accused in a criminal information filed by the federal government with exacting a $275 bonus from a gold star mother for renting her an apartment.

Mrs. Theresa Cahill, who lost two sons in the war and whose third son is receiving total disability compensation for injuries suffered while a prisoner of the Japs, also has brought a civil suit asking treble damages for the $275 she alleges she paid the landlord, Andrew G. Schneider, as a bonus.

The government charged Schneider told Mrs. Cahill last spring she could have her three and one-half room apartment if she gave him a note for $275. The apartment rents for $64.50 a month.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — FIVE years ago this week "The Desert Rat" paid a Valentine visit to the American forces in North Africa.

In the next few days this tempestuous Teuton—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel—sent the overwhelmed Yanks spinning back 40 miles.

That was the only time I ever saw troops I ran back 41½ miles.

After a week of wild rampaging, Rommel trundled his panzers back into the Tunisian coastal hills, leaving behind the shells of 86 American tanks and 20 overrun field guns.

Since then [illegible] has been the fashion to treat the Battle of Kasserine Gap as a great defeat caused by the greenness of American troops.

This ready explanation puts a needless and unfair slur on the men who fought there, men who really had done considerable fighting already. And it hides the fact that much of the blame belongs on the top brass.

Many of the men went to their deaths believing they were fighting the battle the wrong way. I know this because one evening they told me so, and the next evening they were dead.

There will always be some controversy over the Battle of Kasserine. Many American officers who fought there believe the record would have been considerably better if their units hadn't been fed to Rommel a battalion at a time.

Taking the evidence of all I saw and heard, this is how it looks to me five years after.

THERE WAS NO AMERICAN army in Tunisia—only the Second Corps, made up of the First Infantry and First Armored divisions with supporting units.

They were strung out along a 150-mile north-south front on the right flank of the British First Army with British Maj Gen Kenneth A N Anderson in overall command. The sea to the east and this joint British-American force on the west made a corridor through which Field Marshall Montgomery's Eighth army was driving Rommel's Afrika Korps toward Tunis after a 1,500-mile pursuit.

It was foreseen that Rommel would try to break out of the corridor to grab the supplies of gasoline he needed desperately. He could strike at the British through the mountain pass at Pichon or through Faid Pass near the center of the thin American line.

Anderson thought Rommel would choose Pichon. But "The Desert Rat" came through Faid Pass—with three full veteran panzer divisions.

Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall, Second Corps commander, frantically demanded that he be permitted to regroup the First Armored and First Infantry and fight them as full divisions to meet this threat.

ANDERSON REFUSED, believing that the Faid attack was only a diversion and that the main German blow would still come at him through Pichon. He didn't want to commit all American armor at Faid.

"I'm going to be the goat in this," Fredendall said when Anderson's reply came.

So the first day one battalion from the First Armored was sent against the Germans. Outgunned, outnumbered — but not outfought—it was destroyed. The next day a second American tank battalion was ordered out and met the same piecemeal fate.

This left Fredendall only one weary tank battalion. It was under Brig. Gen. Paul McDonald Robinett — slim, small cantankerous commander of combat command "B".

A brilliant tactician, Robinett and his men stopped cold off a German force at least five times their size until the infantry could withdraw. Then they pulled out in perfect order.

I BRING UP ALL this because Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, perhaps Britain's finest soldier, says in his memoirs that the Americans had "no coordinated plan of defense" at this time. That's true. They were confused. Their plan had been knocked in the head the first night.

Alexander also says the defeat engagement a few days later which halted Rommel at Thala was fought by a British armored brigade and infantry battalion supported by two battalions of American Ninth infantry.

That's only half the picture. When Rommel got through Kasserine gap he had the choice of turning south to capture the American Second Corp supplies or north through Thala to outflank the British.

He tried both places—hard. The British and American guns bounced him back from Thala. Combat command "B" under Robinett stopped his southward challenge cold. Then the American air forces went to work on Rommel in the exposed valley. Baffled and still gas-hungry, his panzers withdrew on the long road to defeat.

FREDENDALL WAS BROUGHT home and promoted to an army command. Peppery little Robinett, who has never received public credit for the stand that prevented a debacle, was wounded and later became commander of the armored force school at Fort Knox.

Field Marshal Alexander says that when General George S Patton was rushed up to take command he produced "a transformation in the Second Corps."

He did it by doing what the others had wanted to do. He doubled the size of the corps and insisted that each division be permitted to fight as a unit under tactical American command.

What of General Anderson, the man behind the initial Allied strategy at Kasserine?

After the Tunisian war he went home, was knighted and promoted, and cited by President Roosevelt. In 1944 he was made commander in chief of the eastern command in Britain, a London post.

I can find no record in newspaper files, however, that he ever again led troops in the field under Dwight Eisenhower.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Congress has ended its inquiry into why the commodity markets went up and is now ready to investigate why the commodity markets went down.

And if the market stops in the middle and doesn't move in either direction, there will be an inquiry into that too.

This should not be considered unusual. In fact there were experts still working on the causes of the depression when they were yanked off the job to work on the causes of inflation.

We can take our eyes off the quotations just long enough to watch Connecticut's experiment with perfumed snow to make winter more pleasant.

The idea is to see clouds with perfumed ice crystals. In the future it will be safe for a man to come home smelling of perfume provided it is snowing.

But he had better not try to blame the eye shadow on his lapel on a blizzard.

NATIONAL SECURITY WEEK SCHEDULED

Reserve Officers Event To Open Tomorrow.

National Security week observance, set for an 11-day period beginning tomorrow, will be marked in Marion with various activities coordinated by committees of different Marion service groups, the local chapter of the Reserve Officers association announced today. This traditional observance of the Reserve Officers organization is planned to continue through Feb. 22, the local schedule of events to be made known later, it was stated.

Nationally, the position of honorary chairman has been accepted by Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, who made the following statement: "The cooperation and enthusiasm of the Reserve Officers of the armed forces in maintaining their interests in the services is indicative of their spirit and patriotism during the conflict recently ended.

"The importance of the Reserve Officers, whether Army, Navy or Air Force, to our security can hardly be overemphasized. Those of us who devote our full time to the problems of national security are well aware that any comprehensive plan must depend upon civilian soldier and sailor, veteran or recruit, for its success."

Brig. Gen. E. A. Evans, executive director of the R.O.A., which has national headquarters in Washington, said the appointment of Mr. Forrestal should be taken as a "cue by the entire nation that this is a program upon which all competents of the armed services are actively participating."

"We have as our goal that which must be the goal of every citizen, the strengthening of our nation to guarantee our liberties so that our nation may live in peace under our Constitution," he said.

Anyone desiring further information on the observance may call the unit instructor at 131-133 West Center street, it was stated.

An estimated $9-billion was spent for American vacations in 1946.

Russia Also Has Evidence

RUSSIA'S announcement that it too has some diplomatic "love notes" that will bring a few red scarce was to be expected after publication of the papers showing what was going on between Russia and Germany before World War II.

It appears the Russians found papers involving Germany and the western Allies. These, along with some well-known history, are supposed to prove that Hitler was wooed by Great Britain and France before he ever rolled his mellow eye at the Kremlin. The history, of course, conceals the money poured into Germany by the Allies, chiefly the United States, after World War I.

All this can't explain away what Russia did before World War II, but it's a diversion. It will take some of the cutting edge off the indictment against Russia, and that's the general idea. The fact is that the United States and many European countries financed Germany after World War I to the tune of some five billion dollars, two-fifths of it from the United States. They were trying to obtain reparations by putting Germany back on its feet, but that is overlooked now. The rise of Hitlerism stopped the effort. It was a bad investment, made no better in retrospect by the present fact that the Allies again are talking about putting Germany back on its feet.

As to the documents Russia claims to have, the worst they can show is that Germany worked both sides of the street in the great game of power politics that reached a bloody climax in World War II.

Well?

HEAT from the civil rights issue set afire by President Truman's "insult" to states-rights apologists for lynching, racial discrimination and segregation in the deep South isn't warming up the chilly North.

The threat of a break with the Democratic party sounds like the threat of little boys to run away from home because they can't have their way—a bargaining stunt. Senator Eastland of Mississippi complains: "The Democratic party gives us no consideration because it feels sure that regardless of what it says or does, what the issues are or who the candidate is, our southern people will be led like sheep to the polls to vote the straight party ticket."

That's it—and Senator Eastland will help do the leading.

The one-party system is a device for, by and of southern Democrats, based on a grudge whose origin is beyond the memory of most of its victims, including those in the North. The Democratic monopoly has been exploited cynically for years, at national expense, with the connivance of the same southerners now complaining about the party member it helped to place in the presidency.

They're complaining, be it noted, because they can't have their own way, not because they're itching to free their hog-tied constituents.

The UN's Hottest Potato

DECISION of the United Nations Palestine commission to ask the security council for armed help to enforce the Holy Land partition leaves the UN confronting the same problem such as brought about the decline and fall of the League of Nations.

To make a decision, then lack the wherewithal to enforce it is fatal. The UN has made a decision, but can it enforce it? Trygve Lie, the UN secretary general, has promised that force will be available to back up the decision but he hasn't indicated whence that power is coming.

There are three possible sources of military force to replace the British in Palestine: military contingents from UN member states, including American and Russian troops; a UN constabulary recruited from individual volunteers, or the arming of Palestine Jews with UN authority. A fourth possibility is to let matters stand as at present, which would bode ill for the Jews and the United Nations.

Whichever course the security council follows, there is certain to be bloodshed.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

Startling Revelations Made in Morgenthau's Story.

THE [illegible] by Henry [illegible] of current [illegible] for the New York Post [illegible] department and the [illegible] department as it [illegible] Germany. He [illegible] a document [illegible] by the state department which [illegible] trouble and [illegible] Morgenthau [illegible] Germany [illegible] London and [illegible] with

"I want to say that I am not interested in the German economy and personally would [illegible] like to bother [illegible] if that will make it easier for the Germans."

SOKOLSKY

Now, how could it be that General Eisenhower or anybody else in [illegible] responsible [illegible] position could say that he [illegible] interested in the German economy? For after all, Germany is the economic and geographic heart of Europe. It may be that it is unfortunate for mankind that the particular people who inhabit that particular area of the earth's surface are those who are there. But no intelligent man can say that he is not interested in German economy—for it is German economy that has already cost us two wars, and the huge cost of occupation and the British loan and the Marshall plan and so much else that has disturbed our generation. How could General Eisenhower say that in 1947?

It was in 1941 that Henry Morgenthau was told by General Eisenhower, as Morgenthau reports, [illegible] New York in 1944 and on that occasion [illegible] to set up plans [illegible] Germany after the war. That is before Yalta and Potsdam. It was before Soviet troops took over Warsaw, Bucharest, Roumania, Poland, Hungary, the Kurile Islands, Manchuria and Korea. It was before the Iron Curtain was organized, and before the Soviet blockade of Berlin, and before Russia moved into the Soviet Zone of Austria. It was before Soviet Russia tried to take the atom bomb from us.

Difficult To Believe

Certainly it is difficult to believe that Eisenhower was so badly informed, so inadequately oriented as Morgenthau makes him out to have been. For the history and purposes of Bolshevism, from 1917 to 1944, is a thoroughly documented story, widely known and canvassed by intelligent students the world over. It is not possible to believe that the man to whom the destiny of this country was entrusted could have been so superficial. Until Eisenhower speaks for himself, I, for one, decline to believe that he could possibly have expressed such views.

Hull in Dark

Of course, the confusions in thought and policy in the Roosevelt administration are beyond belief. Morgenthau reports, for instance, that he discussed not treasury but foreign problems with all sorts of people, although the country assumed that it was Cordell Hull who was secretary of state. Apparently, the American people were wrong, because Hull seems not to have known what was going on. For instance, Morgenthau discussed Teheran with Anthony Eden and then with Cordell Hull. Apparently minutes were kept at Teheran, but Cordell Hull was not permitted to see them although, as secretary of state, they should have been in his possession. According to Morgenthau, this is what Hull told him:

"I don't have a chance to do anything. I am not told what is going on. That's on a higher level. I am told that is a military affair. I have consultations with the war department every day on the immediate objectives, but when they talk about the state of Germany I am not even consulted."

Why was he secretary of state? The story is coming out, even earlier than had been expected. Maybe, in time, some of us who warned the American people that they were being fooled and their confidence abused will unfortunately be proved to have been right. I, for one, would rather have been proved wrong. The other day, I remarked to a friend that it would have given me more comfort for the future of my children, if the facts, as they are now disclosed, would show that I had been in error during the years of the Roosevelt confusion.

The Femme Fatale

The American Automobile association warns women that the "new look" may result in a great many more accidents.

And not necessarily to men.

It seems that injuries to pedestrians are currently divided, 22 per cent involving women and 78 per cent involving men. But the odds are due to get shorter as skirts get longer.

The uncovered leg, explains the AAA, is more apt to be seen . . . especially by masculine drivers.

The result is that a great many women will be what others are saying they wouldn't be, buried in the new look.

Of course, the AAA is merely affirming what feminine hitchhikers have known all along: with short skirts, the danger lies not so much in being run down . . . as picked up.

White House Policy Making

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON — Toward the close of last week, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, Senator J. Howard McGrath, and the committee's executive director, Gael Sullivan, called at the White House to receive a significant warning.

President Truman told his visitors the Palestine problem was now so grave that it could only be handled on the highest level of American policy making. And he strictly enjoined both McGrath and Sullivan not to interfere in any way, either by bringing pressure on the White House about Palestine, or by offering unauthorized encouragement to the Zionist leaders who are pouring into Washington to ask for aid.

The incident primarily discloses the change that has been wrought in the administration, by belated realization of the danger of a Palestine catastrophe. The full measure of this change can only be taken by contrasting last week's episode at the White House with one which occurred shortly before the 1946 elections.

At that time in London, the British were seeking Arab and Jewish agreement to a Palestine compromise, on the basis of the findings of the first Anglo-American investigating committee. While these negotiations were going on, the President's advisor, David Niles, brought word to Truman that Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York would shortly advocate immediate opening of Palestine to large scale Jewish immigration. Truman's political managers led by Robert Hannegan, McGrath's predecessor as Democratic committee chairman, urged that the President forestall Dewey with a statement of his own.

Opposed by State Department

A draft was prepared. Issuance of the statement was opposed by the state department, but the department could only secure permission to notify the British of what was afoot. Prime minister Attlee instantly replied to the President, promising that a settlement was in sight in London, but warning that White House intervention would render agreement impossible.

None the less, on Hannegan's insistence, Truman issued his statement asking that Palestine be opened to 100,000 Jewish immigrants. Dewey, not to be outdone, followed with another statement asking for even larger immigration. The London negotiations collapsed. And the British mood of hysteria and neurosis about Palestine, which has led to so much subsequent folly, thereupon set in.

In the earlier case, in short, the President permitted American policy to be made by his political managers. Now, on the contrary, he has confided the whole task of policy making to the representatives of the state and service departments, who compose the newly formed National Security Council.

Nor is this the only evidence of change in the President. There have been others—some of them, if one must speak honestly, of a far from admirable character.

One such is the entirely authentic report of the White House visit of a leading American Zionist, who asked for the lifting of the embargo on arms shipments to Palestine. The President told his visitor, with great bitterness, that he would not be party to any steps likely to lead to eventual direct American intervention. Thus far, whether he was right or wrong, the President was at least within his prerogative. But he then went on to blame the American Zionists, again with great bitterness, for preventing a settlement a year ago. The charge, if true, could only be true in the sense that the President himself yielded too far to the American Zionists' pressure. It is difficult to imagine a more remarkable abnegation of the final responsibility that is inherent in the Presidency.

The Stakes Are High

But the reflections of these incidents on the President's stature as a leader are far less important that the reflection they cast upon the status of the Palestine problem. Where human lives, and human suffering, and human hopes are among the stakes in the game, the fact is difficult to state without seeming crude. But the crude fact is that Palestine has always been deeply involved in domestic politics.

A bi-partisan effort is now quietly going on, to get Palestine out of politics. The President's political managers, McGrath and Sullivan, frankly fear that Palestine will hurt him more in the coming election than the phony candidacy of Henry A. Wallace. Every leader of every northern Democratic organization, from David Lawrence in Pennsylvania to Mayor O'Dwyer in New York, has addressed frantic appeals to Washington for the lifting of the arms embargo and other steps, on grounds of pure political expediency. None the less, McGrath and Sullivan assented to the President's injunction against any further interference, because of their sense of the terrible dangers inherent in this problem.

For this very reason, it is to be hoped that the effort to keep Palestine out of politics will be at least partly successful. As to what American Palestine policy ought to be, it is possible to argue for weeks and months. But on one point, there can be no argument. It is impossible to condone the practice of giving weight to such factors as the desirability of forestalling Governor Dewey, when great complex and tragic world problems are demanding settlement.

The Right Pressure

Thomas Committee Resumes

By Raymond Moley

THE Thomas committee on un-American activities now begins a new phase of its work. So far, its major task has been to bring to public attention the nature of American Communism and the extent to which it has penetrated our life. The committee now proposes to consider how to deal with Communism, by law or by other means. A number of bills are under consideration, and a series of witnesses have been called who will make further suggestions.

In general, two problems are before the committee—problems which call for quite different types of remedical action.

MOLEY

The first is the Communist party itself. Should it be barred from primaries and elections? Are there effective means of achieving that end?

The second has to do with organizations other than political parties which deal in propaganda and other forms of influence. What should or can be done to protect the public against alien and subversive activities of this kind?

The question of outlawing the Communist party raises a strange legal paradox. The courts have held that it is libelous to call a man a Communist, but the courts have generally defeated legislative efforts to outlaw the party. Thus, Communists can and usually do answer attackers by saying they are under the protective arm of the law.

A further paradox appears in this connection. Some of the most violent opponents of Communism are also violently opposed to any law excluding the Communist party from the ballot. Moreover, while Gallup polls show that a great majority of the American people want to outlaw the Communist party, the legislatures seem powerless to carry out this wish and intent of the voters.

Difficulty Encountered

A part of the legal problems is in the difficulty of framing legislation which explicitly proscribes Communism and does not affect other small parties with radical programs. It is also extremely difficult to provide proof which the courts will accept. The United States supreme court, in the Schneiderman and Bridges cases, set up requirements of proof which are almost impossible to meet.

On the issue of legislation compelling the disclosure of the backers and supporters of propagandist organizations, there will be wide differences of opinion. Two New York lawyers who have for years been prominent in cases involving free speech, Arthur Garfield Hays and Morris Ernest, are in conflict over this question. Ernst proposes legislation to force disclosure of support given to all organizations, whether radical or not, which carry on large propandanda activities. Hays rests his objection to this on his orthodox liberal philosophy. Such legislation would be an unnecessary restriction of free speech, he contends.

Important Disclosures

The Thomas committee has made important disclosures of activity. It has, with occasional lapses of fairness, made a genuine contribution in informing the public of really dangerous elements in our life. But all such disclosures are likely to degenerate into an indiscriminate Red hunt, unless specific remedies are provided. The danger in the present situation is not so much from Communists. It arises in the possibility that an aroused public opinion will blast the innocent as well as the guilty. The Thomas committee must now determine with great care exactly what should be done about the problem it has described.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Women at The Bar

Certain of being condemned as an outcast tyranny and slavery of prudery and old fogyism, we are less than 1% per cent against proposals to bar women from drinking at saloons. We think they are helping to civilize the institution, that the barroom is no place for drummer and kid, and that the female at the counter is not only more pearly than the male at the bar, but more unpredictable.

PHILLIPS

You can get some idea what a man is apt to do on the too many occasions, but the lady drinker is a constant threat and mental hazard. When she drinks too much, she is no gentleman.

We could that women at a bar put the cold on the old mood of carefree companionship. She is a drawback to general comfortability and unrestrained relaxation. We like the saloon of the era when no man, however bold, could suspect that a stare at the far end of the mahogany was a mother, wife or daughter.

Furthermore, it has raised hob with the bartending. No barboy can retain his old air of power independence and freedom when surrounded by female flushes, none of whom answered of John L. Sullivan, or is competent to discuss the world series of 1924. The barmen have become stuffy, reserved, frustrated, nervous, self-conscious and incompetent. They are muddled club-bearers no longer mindful of traditions and legends of the trade.

When all barflies were men, the barkeep was bluff, rib-rocking, he-man, taking no nonsense from anybody, ruling the joint with iron hand, and above all, specializing in mixing a drink the right way.

They have become a cautious, colorless set of mere saloon workers. Inwardly they bemoan the fact that Whistler's Mother could be a customer between the Old Soak and the Two Tanks, and that the consumer standing between the baseball fanatic and the character known as Rumpot Mulligan, is somebody's sister.

* * *

They have become so used to mixing drinks for dolls who will take anything if it has a cherry or an olive in it (with a dash of something pink or green) that they no longer bother to keep up the high standards of their profession as mixologists. The decline in skill behind the bars since they were thrown open to women is scandalous.

Before prohibition the barroom was restricted to males, and quite largely to the hardier specimens. It was a healthy situation when the community held the barroom in something resembling disrespect. But prohibition and its repeal welcomed with flourishes, ruffles and swank smiles, a situation where mumsie and the kiddies get the green light in the best and worst alcoholic centers. Supplementing it all with package stores two and three to a block.

A New York legislator, Bertha Schwarz, opposing any bill to bar women from bars, says: "If it is intended to keep women out of bars because bars are immoral, then let us have no bars. If it is suggested that women are more prone to the dangers of alcohol than men, I deny it emphatically." Ogoshsakes!

Mrs. Nelia Gardner White of New Hartford, Conn., has won an $8,000 best novel prize with a book called "No Trumpet Before Him." There is obviously, no character in it anywhere called "Toots."

Whatever became of the old-fashioned man who used to get around to shoveling his sidewalk?

Street Signs

By TRUMAN TWILL

Add to the things we're going to do if we ever get laid up in bed with a broken leg—besides reading "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire"—a design for a better street sign.

Even a broken toe should be long enough to do the job, because anything would be an improvement over what has been foisted on the helpless public.

The original idea of the monstrosities now in use apparently was to give the drivers of streetcoaches an eye-level view of the signs on occasions. They're invisible from any other position.

The driver of a modern automobile has no choice but to park his buggy, get the half-mile power flashlight out of the glove compartment, jam his hat over his ears and shimmy up the street-sign pole. When he gets to the top, chances are he still won't know where he is.

His next best bet is to cruise by slowly, depending on a sharp-eyed companion to pick out a sign with super-binoculars, because the perverse whimsy of the curious characters who put up street signs is to put them where they are possibly be seen by the auto driver who's looking for them.

As for pedestrians, the only chance they have to make use of a street sign is if they're seven feet tall, have perfect vision and the sign is shining, assuming that the sign hasn't been knocked down, turned around, or faded out to a dirty blur.

The only thing so far that has been done about this deplorable situation are signs now coming into use some places that are made to be looked up and down because they're printed on the posts—which aren't bad if the name of the street contains no more than four letters but no use at all for the number of letters most street names do contain, such as Pumpernickel Parkway. Anyone who could pick that up in less than 10 long looks could pick up handkerchiefs with his teeth while riding a horse.

We don't know why a street sign should be as conspicuous as the signs on well-marked highways that tell you where you are and what you need to know about it. Such as:

CHESTNUT STREET
Watch for Dogs & Children
Residential Only
Look Out for the Big Bump

At a time when no one can be sure about anything any more, it would be nice to know at least what street you were on.

Hull Writes About U.S. Reaction To '39 Peace Rumors

By CORDELL HULL

(Copyright, 1948, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

INSTALLMENT XV

THE Russo-Finnish war went on amid the snows of the north, with Finnish heroism converting the Soviet's expected walkover into a desperate three months' battle.

Even though the conflict added two more to the list of warring states, Europe throughout the waning months of 1939 was replete with rumors of peace moves. The period of stalemate following the collapse of Poland offered tilled ground for both rumors and serious moves toward peace. These were of interest to me because inevitably they linked the United States with the movements supposedly in course.

Early as October 2, 1939, Dutch Minister Gunther in Berlin cabled me an expression of deep interest by the Netherlands foreign minister in the reports that the President might be considering a peace move. I cabled him the next day that no such move was being considered and that we had received no indications that any of the belligerents desired us to make one.

Hitler, in an address on October 6, made vague proposals in the direction of peace—naturally a settlement that would leave him in possession of most of his gains in the war, as well as Czechoslovakia and Austria. Following this speech, Ambassador Joseph E. Davies in Belgium cabled the President and me that he had been asked by a high source—later revealed to be King Leopold—to say that only the President could avert a German assault on western Europe, and Belgium hoped that the President might make another effort like those he had made during previous crises.

THE SAME DAY, October 7, Alexander Kirk, our Charge in Berlin, cabled that someone close to Hitler had conveyed the thought that the President might use Hitler's speech as the occasion to send a confidential message to him endorsing his "efforts toward peace" and seeking clarification of his bases for establishing peace. Two days later Kirk cabled that a German press spokesman said that Germany could certainly accept from the President a suggestion for a truce and negotiations toward peace and intimated that Germany might take part in a conference somewhere far removed from the war theater—which some interpreted to mean Washington.

Then the following day came a dispatch from American Minister Schoenfeld in Helsinki, conveying a suggestion from the Finnish foreign minister that the United States might take the initiative in exploring the possibilities of peace.

AS A RESULT of this influx of cables, all along the same line, I called a meeting of my associates in my office on Sunday, October 8. I invited Norman Davis to take part, as I not infrequently did when I had special need of his sage advice and long experience. We had already had intensive discussions among ourselves as to whether there was any reasonable move the United States could make at this time to restore peace to Europe.

During this Sunday conference we went over the draft of a possible United States proposal. In it we would ask the belligerent to state their peace terms; we would offer to act as intermediary to transmit communications on this subject to the opposing belligerents. After much exchanging of views, I said I did not believe any useful purpose would be served by a peace move by the United States at this time.

With Hitler the victor thus far, any move toward peace we might make would not but benefit him and discourage the Allies. We would not be warranted in pressing Britain and France to make peace on such terms. Our very suggestion of peace to Britain and France would put them on a wrong footing. If they accepted, they would have to agree in large part to Hitler's terms; if they refused, they would incur the blame for having rejected peace.

OUR DECISION not to act did not prevent the peace rumors from continuing. It seemed to us that many of these rumors emanated from Germany, and were designed partly to create the impression that Hitler was always ready for peace, and partly to confuse the Allies with alternate peace rumors and invasion rumors.

Charge d'Affaires Kirk cabled from Berlin on November 5 that Hjalmar Schacht indicated he would like to come to the United States, ostensibly to make a non-political address, if he were assured of being received by the President so that he might present his ideas on how to settle the European conflict. Kirk also reported that other similar efforts of an entirely unofficial character had recently come to his attention, but he warned against giving them too much significance, saying that the final decision on peace and war continued to rest with Hitler.

Schacht's move appeared to us to be part of a general effort by the German government to establish contact with other governments through unofficial agents who appeared to be acting entirely independently of the German government and, in fact, in some ways in opposition to it.

WHEN KING LEOPOLD of the Belgians suddenly went to The Hague and joined with Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands in offering their good offices to end the war, Ambassador Davies cabled the President and me on November 7 that their move had been prompted by information that Germany would invade the Netherlands on November 9. Dutch Minister Dr. Alexander Loudon called on me on the 9th. Very wrought-up, he conveyed a message to the President and me from his government to the effect that the neutrality of the Netherlands and of Belgium might be violated in matter of days, even hours. The President sent King Leopold and Queen Wilhelmina messages on November 11 expressing his friendship but making no commitments.

MYRON C. TAYLOR

Writing of Mr. Taylor's Appointment to Vatican post, Mr. Hull says: "A more suitable selection could not have been made.

Then on December 14 Ambassador Bullitt cabled me from Paris a statement to him by Alexis Leger, of the French foreign office, that Mussolini was seeking to bring about a premature peace that would preserve the Nazi regime in Germany and thereby protect his own regime in Italy. Leger believed that Mussolini wanted to return to the basic principles of the four-power pact among Britain, Germany, and Italy which the Italian premier had proposed in 1933.

MEANWHILE THE PRESIDENT had been talking over with us a project to establish some kind of relations with the Vatican. In early July, nearly two months before the outbreak of the war, Welles and I had discussed the advantages that might be gained through such relations. We felt that the Vatican had many sources of information, particularly with regard to what was occurring in Germany, Italy, and Spain, which we did not possess. At my suggestion, Welles wrote a personal letter to Ambassador Phillips, in Rome, asking his opinion. Phillips replied on July 19, recommending diplomatic relations, and suggesting that a Protestant be named as the American representative. Welles sent this letter to the President.

In conversations with the President I cautioned that we could not send a regular ambassador to the Vatican and would have to limit ourselves to a personal representative from himself to the Pope. I favored Phillips's suggestion that this representative should be a Protestant. Great Britain had followed the procedure of naming a Protestant as her minister to the Vatican, with a Catholic as first secretary of the legation. I also said that, if he took this step, he should simultaneously enlist the similar cooperation of the American leaders of other churches.

AMBASSADOR PHILLIPS in Rome had cabled me on September 25 that the Vatican newspaper, "Osservatore Romano," had carried a full and objective report of the President's neutrality message to congress. I sent this to the President for his information.

The President then sent me on October 2 a long memorandum, which began with: "This is a wholly original thought with me and I have discussed it with no one else." He prospected the probability that when the war ended, whether "soon, next Summer or three years or five years from now," there would be a very large number of refugees, Christian as well as Jewish, coming from many countries, including even England, France and Italy.

"I am wondering, therefore," he continued, "if you and I should not begin the consideration, while the war is still on, of discussing the whole subject with the Vatican and with the representatives of the Federal Council of Churches in America and some similar organizations in Europe. The contact with the Jews has already been made through the Myron Taylor committee.

"But a contact with the Catholic church ought to be made directly with the Vatican itself, because this question is of infinitely more importance to European Catholics than to American Catholics.

"It is my thought, therefore, that while there is no particular reason for haste, we might give consideration to sending at a later date a special minister or ambassador on special mission to the Vatican, in order that we could have a direct system of communication covering the subject of European Catholic refugees."

In his memorandum the President based his suggestion of a diplomatic representative to the Pope solely on the refugee question. He did not mention the aspect, which later assumed great importance to him, that the Vatican would be a factor in obtaining peace.

ON OCTOBER 10 HE SENT me another memorandum in which he referred to Ambassador Phillips's communication on the "Osservatore Romano's" reporting of the President's neutrality message to congress. Mr. Roosevelt said: "For various reasons I think it would be a good idea for you to telegraph something along the following line to Phillips: 'Will you at your convenience intimate to the Papal Secretary of State that the President has been made very happy by the impartial printing of American news in the "Osservatore Romano" . . .' " I sent Phillips a cable to this effect on October 11, and on October 20 received a cable from him expressing the Pope's gratification at the President's message.

After some weeks of soundings at the Vatican, I cabled Phillips on December 23, informing him of the text of a Christmas letter to the Pope from the President which would be made public on the following day, and of the President's intention to announce the appointment of Myron C. Taylor as his representative to the Vatican. The original letter was given to the apostolic delegate in Washington through Archbishop (now Cardinal) Francis J. Spellman of New York. The President sent similar letters to Dr. George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, as a Protestant leader, and to Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, as a Jewish leader. A more suitable selection than Mr. Taylor could not have been made. He possessed wide intelligence and unusual common sense. In addition to his work at the Vatican he became one of the moving spirits in our work of initiating and developing the outlines of a proposed world peace organization.

Mr. Taylor sailed for Europe in February, 1940, and our new relations with the Vatican began. It developed that the Pope had the same realistic approach to the problem of peace in Europe as ourselves, and was determined not to put forward ideas for settlement unless a peace could be won that would last. That time was not to come until Germany lay in shambles.

Also on Nye street, an eight-inch sanitary sewer and 12-inch storm sewer will run from Bennett street south, total footage, 1,360 feet.

To Provide Trunk-Line

The Bennett street and Fies avenue project when completed will serve as a trunk-line sewer taking dry weather flow from the Columbia street ditch to the sewage disposal plant via the Clinton street and West Center street sewer line, Safety-Service Director E. O. Uncapher said.

A control gate which may be closed when heavy rains result in excess run off, will divert surface water into the Columbia street ditch rather than into the trunkline to the sewage disposal plant, Mr. Uncapher explained.

The project will be paid partly from the city general obligation bonds and partly by the property owners served by the sewers. The city will pay approximately 56 per cent of the cost with the property owners paying approximately 44 per cent. Cost to the property owners includes construction of the laterals from the sewer line to the homes served.

SIX INDICTED MEN ARRAIGNED TODAY

Three Plead Guilty and Three Not Guilty.

Arraigned this morning before Common Pleas Judge Paul D. Smith, three persons indicted by the January term grand jury last week entered pleas of guilty. They were Herman Neff and Harold Thompson, indicted for fraud, Joseph Holley, cutting with intent to wound.

Disposition of their cases is still in progress.

Dennis Lewis Trachsel, indicted for receiving and concealing stolen property, pleaded not guilty to the indictment but offered a guilty plea to the lesser charge of receiving and concealing less than $35 worth of stolen property. This plea was accepted by the prosecution. He was fined $100 and costs. Attorney Paul D. Michel represented Trachsel.

John Belford, indicted on two counts—cutting with intent to wound and assault and battery—pleaded not guilty to each. He will be tried March 11 on the cutting charge and March 16 on the assault charge. As Belford stated he was without funds counsel will be appointed by the court.

James Thomas, indicted for non-support, pleaded not guilty and his trial date was set for March 4.

INFLATION

end of inflation, we shouldn't mourn events that are killing it. What we want is stabilization—we want prices down where we can continue the record prosperity we have been building up since the war.

We don't want prices to go down too fast or too far, however, and there are some dangers that they might.

Traders the world over are nervous. Foreign stock markets are showing increasing signs of nervousness. The recent devaluations of the Italian lira and the French franc, however sound in Italy and France, have had unsettling effects abroad. The British have denied that they intend to devalue their pound sterling, but they have failed to quiet apprehension that they would do it. A British devaluation probably would spark a general worldwide deflation.

Our own Wall Street is nervous. Even though stock prices are regarded as low, they can still drop sharply, as they did last week and yesterday.

Another danger lies in our gray markets and in large inventories of goods which people had been holding while the price spiral was running upward. Now that it has turned, we can expect goods to be thrown into the market for what profits can still be had. This thrusts prices further down.

So far, however, the situation seems to be in hand. The consumer has his gains, and can expect more. Just what he ultimately gets from the price break—a healthy stabilization or some kind of a recession—will depend on developments. The next few days should tell him much.

COUNTY SEEKS U.S. ROAD AID

Plans for Keener Pike Project Submitted for Approval.

Walter W. Johnson, county engineer, announced today that deputies Vern Dutton and Reed Ours have taken the road plans for the reconstruction of the Keener Pike (County Road 100-B) to the state highway division headquarters at Delaware for approval under the federal aid program.

This improvement is approximately 2.8 miles in length and is estimated to cost about $72,000, Mr. Johnson said. Under the federal aid program half of the cost is paid by the government and half by the county.

After approval by the Delaware office, the plans will be forwarded to Columbus for further study and approval and then sent to Washington for perusal by the federal roads administration, which controls the matching funds.

The work will include the grading of berms and ditches, application of five inches of new stone macadam and a topping of mixed in place asphalt. The county is acquiring additional ground on each side of the present road to make a fifty-foot right-of-way.

Mr. Johnson hopes to have the project under way by early summer and completed this year.

The Keener Pike improvement will be the third to be made in Marion county under federal aid provisions. Two now in the process of construction are on the Hillman-Ford road north of Marion and the LaRue-DeCliff road. The former project extending for about two miles is 90 per cent completed while the latter covering a distance of about three miles, is just getting under way.

Marion county has already been authorized about $50,000 as the federal share of these two projects. With approval of the Keener pike project, the federal aid will total approximately $80,000 for Marion county road improvement.

The county actually is getting more than the maximum under the federal aid program, Mr. Johnson said. Limit originally was a maximum of $60,000 in federal aid. However, as some counties have not used the full allocation of federal funds, the balance is being authorized for construction in counties where improvement projects are contemplated.

CHAPLAIN IN WAR TALKS TO ROTARY

Rev. John E. Duffy Speaks on World Problems.

Rev. John E. Duffy of New London, O., an outstanding chaplain in World War II, was speaker at the weekly meeting of the club yesterday at Hotel Harding. His topic was "The State of the World Today."

Rev. Duffy, pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic church in New London, served as an Army chaplain for 15 years, retiring with the rank of colonel. He was stationed in the Philippines and during World War II was on Corregidor at the time it was surrendered to the Japanese, was on the Bataan march, was confined in a Jap prison, rescued from three vessels that were sunk by the enemy, and following his return to the United States was hospitalized for some time at Walter Reed hospital.

"We have no peace despite the fact that our enemies have surrendered unconditionally," the former chaplain told his audience. He declared we are in a worse condition today than in 1914 and pointed out various circumstances as proof.

"What can I get out of America' is the philosophy of America today," Father Duffy stated, and added that "we are a sick country with politicians who are concerned with nothing but their own welfare." In closing he said that our only hope of peace is that we should return to the principles of America and realize that God is supreme and not man.

Lost Over 1 Lb. a Day With Rennel Says Dayton Lady
"I find Rennel Concentrate the best reducer yet," writes Glenn Fitzwater, 16 Shaw Ave., Dayton, Ohio. "I have taken several other products for reducing but have had no success. With Rennel I have lost 15 lbs. in just 2 weeks and ate everything. I felt fine while taking Rennel and so much better now that I have lost some weight."
Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles; just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on and obtain genuine Rennel.

COURT RULES ON UTAH CASE

Polygamy Charge Sent Back for Decision on Constitutionality of Law.

Special to The Star

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 — The supreme court Monday sent back to the Utah supreme court the case of 18 "Fundamentalists" convicted for conspiring to preach polygamy.

The state court was instructed to examine the law under which they were convicted to determine if it is so vague as to be unconstitutional.

Justice Robert H. Jackson delivered the 6 to 3 decision. Justices Wiley B. Rutledge, William O. Douglas and Frank Murphy dissented.

The dissenters would have declared the conviction as a violation of their rights of free speech under the first amendment.

The "Fundamentalists" who believe in polygamy, are members of an offshoot of the Mormon church. The Mormon church itself has forbidden polygamy for more than 50 years.

The 18 were found guilty of conspiring to advocate, promote, encourage, urge, teach, counsel the practice of polygamy. Utah law specifically prohibits plural marriage.

For a second time the court refused to review the conviction of Dondie M. Johnson, son of former Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson of Lewisburg, Pa., on charges of defrauding the government.

It reported on Jan. 19 Dondie Johnson's first action. His attorneys then asked the court to reconsider. In announcing Monday merely that that request was denied.

Convicted in U. S. district court in Harrisburg, Dondie Johnson now faces maximum of a sentence of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Judge Johnson was acquitted at the same Harrisburg trial.

The Johnsons and others were tried on indictment charging corruption in the handling of receivership and criminal cases heard by the elder Johnson during his years on the federal bench in the middle Pennsylvania district.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Painful Migraine Headache

True migraine is one of those rather strange diseases which show themselves only in periodic attacks, leaving their victims absolutely free of symptoms at other times. So far as migraine is concerned, the attacks consist of severely painful headaches on one side of the head. They are often foreshadowed by a feeling of mental dullness or blurred eyesight, and are frequently accompanied by vomiting.

Treatment involves two things: first, measures to stop the pain during an attack, and second, measures to keep the attacks from occurring.

Since the exact cause of migraine is not known, the latter measure is the more difficult. On the other hand, there are a number of preparations which successfully relieve the pain.

One of these is ergotamine tartrate. However, this preparation is somewhat toxic in certain cases, and thus may produce unpleasant or harmful reactions. For this reason some physicians believe that a newer drug, known as dihydroergotamine may be employed, since it is as effective as the ergotamine tartrate and seems to be less toxic.

Fifty-one patients were treated by one investigator over a period of thirteen months with this preparation. The drug was given by injection under the skin. With this preparation, eight out of every ten of the patients obtained complete relief of the headache within from thirty minutes to four hours with one dose. Four other patients had a reduction in the severity and the duration of the headache. Only six were not helped.

Of these fifty-one patients, twenty-two had previously been treated with ergotamine tartrate, but had discontinued it because of reactions, or because they were not helped by the preparation. On the other hand, there are many patients with migraine who have used ergotamine tartrate successfully.

The newer preparation caused reactions in about one out of four cases, but in no instance were these reactions so severe that the patient had to stop treatment. These reactions consisted of a burning or pain where the injections were given, as well as pain in the back, thighs, or legs for an hour after the injection. Sometimes a sensation of weakness occurred in the legs, and a burning feeling in the scalp.

None of the patients who obtained good results with the dihydroergotamine found it necessary to stop using it because of "toxic reactions." The number of patients benefited by this drug was as great as with the ergotamine tartrate.

The drug has also been used in treating a few patients who complained of sickness at the stomach, vomiting, and abdominal cramps. It is thought that this group of symptoms may occasionally be due to sensitivity or allergy, and may be related to migraine. These patients also were completely relieved of their symptoms.

Questions and Answers

F. F.: Will you please write something about fallen stomach?

Answer: The symptoms in gastroptosis or fallen stomach are loss of weight, coated tongue, bloating, pain in the abdomen, and constipation. An X-ray examination and various other tests are often necessary to make an accurate diagnosis of this condition. The symptoms of this condition can generally be relieved if the patient will cooperate faithfully.

Exercises to strengthen the abdominal and pelvic muscles are helpful. Mechanical support of the lower abdomen by a belt or corset is often effective.

The average copper ore in the United States in 1944 contained about 86 hundredths of one per cent of copper.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

UN TO PICK CITY FOR 1948 SESSION

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 11—The United Nations is getting ready to toss a $5,000,000 plum to a European city. Its choice of a site for the 1948 assembly meeting probably will involve that much money.

It probably will go to Paris, Brussels, Geneva or The Hague.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie has called a nine-nation committee to meet next Monday to decide where the 1948 general assembly will be held. The 57 member nations decided at last fall's assembly here that the session would be held in a European city to be selected by Lie and the committee.

Lie, just back from an extensive tour of European cities, will make a factual report without a definite recommendation, his advisers said. On the basis of consultations with officials in Europe, he has narrowed the list down to four cities.

Corridor speculation favors Paris, this trend having been bolstered by the recent devaluation of the French franc.

200 At Galion Legion Post Kraut Dinner

Special to The Star

GALION—Nearly 200 were present for the annual pig knuckles and sauer kraut dinner held by Scarbrough Post, the American Legion, Monday night, at the Legion home. Sam Brewer was chairman of dinner arrangements, and he was assisted by a committee of the American Legion auxiliary.

Three officers of the fifth district were speakers for the program which followed the dinner. They were Dwaine Simmons, adjutant, Carl Smith, commander, and Alton Pontius, vice commander.

Initiation for 19 candidates was in charge of the degree team, Commander Bernard Liggett presided for the brief business session. At this time, announcement was made that membership is now 428, with the quota set at 494. The post is entering the Galion euchre tournament in which six organizations are participating, it was announced.

Court of Honor Held By Boy Scout Troop

In keeping with National Boy Scout Week which is being observed this week throughout the country, Troop 7, Boy Scouts, of the First Evangelical and Reformed church held a court of honor Tuesday night at the church. Parents of the boys were guests.

The court of honor was conducted by Howard S. Ropke, assistant district commissioner. Badges were presented to Robert Felchlin, swimming and life saving, and David Koenig, second class pin. The presentations were made by the Scouts mothers, Mrs. Leo Felchlin and Mrs. John Koenig.

Short talks were given by Harold Brady and Urton Anderson, neighborhood commissioners. The achievement banner for 1947 was presented to the troop by Paul Castanien, church committeeman. John Koenig is Scoutmaster of the troop.

In Plain Words By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

ECONOMIC experts don't always agree and they're not always right. The same goes for government officials.

Take what's happening now. Or take what happened right after World War II. Or take what happened in 1929.

The point is "You'll have to wait and see who's right."

Right now prices on the commodity exchanges—where things like wheat, corn and land are traded—have taken a dive.

And some of the experts have been busy for a week trying to explain why.

James Marlow

They don't seem too sure. They sound like they're guessing. It might be this. It might be that. How long will the price drop last? No one can say.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said prices were too high anyway and had to come down. Maybe he's right. But why right now? What started it.

And yesterday Bernard M. Baruch, many times an adviser to presidents, took a gander at the commodity markets and said:

The break in prices is a good thing and does not forecast a business depression.

Now take what happened right after World War II, when John W. Snyder, now secretary of the treasury, was reconversion director.

He took a look at the future. It was a dim view. He got gloomy. That was in 1945, in the fall.

He estimated that by the spring of 1946 maybe 8,000,000 people would be unemployed. It was pretty chilling when he said it.

HE WAS WRONG, though. People piled into jobs and in this past year employment in this country reached a record.

And back in October, 1946, the American Federation of Labor's "Monthly Survey" gazed into a crystal ball and figured:

The rise in living costs was over and by early 1947 the prices you paid for things in stores might come down.

The only trouble was: Prices from that point on shot up through the roof.

Now trot back to those ghostly and ghastly days in October, 1929, when the boom of the golden 1920's went bust and the depression started.

On Monday, Oct. 21, 1929, stocks slumped. The New York Times reported:

"Amid scenes of wild confusion and drastically lower prices, the stock market continued yesterday to pay the piper for its long dance of advancing and inflated prices."

THAT NIGHT PROFESSOR Irving Fisher, head of Yale's department of economics, looked at the situation and calmly said:

The market break was a "shaking out of the lunatic fringe that attempts to speculate on margin." He predicted the market within the next few weeks would start climbing again.

And government officials in Washington said there was no evidence of a serious business or financial situation which could be blamed for the break.

The next day stocks rallied. Charles N. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank, came home from Europe. He was pretty calm, too.

He said "the public is suffering from 'broken' lunch." The situation is one which will correct itself."

BUT ROGER BABSON, also an economist, took a different view. He predicted a big break in the market, with worse to come.

The next day was Wednesday, Oct. 23. The New York Times reported:

"Frightened by the decline stock prices during the last month and a half, thousands of stockholders dumped their shares on the market in such an avalanche of selling as to bring on one of the wildest declines in history."

The Times figures the market value loss in stocks that day was $4,000,000,000.

But in Washington, the Times said, the "break in the stock market came as a surprise to administration officials who * * * had believed the recession was checked."

And in Washington that night Professor Fisher again had a few words to say. He said the smash in the market would be followed by recovery.

The next day, Thursday Oct. 24, was the blackest in financial history. The New York Times reported:

"The most disastrous decline in the biggest and broadest stock market of history rocked the financial district."

Some bankers were interviewed and agreed that "all's well."

PROBABLY the lowest game that will be played in the opening round of the county basketball tournament Friday night is the night-cap tilt between Waldo and Marion-Local. Waldo took Monday night's game in the opening game of the season, but both teams looked like they could score the fifth place in the league with a 4-5 won-lost record. Marion-Local, meeting the Indians for the second time this season, has a 3-6 record in the league and Waldo has a 2-7 mark. Both teams have been averaging better than 30 points a game and allowing 36+ points a game and a victory for the Marion-Local quintet would be the biggest upset in the county league race. Prospect will meet New Bloomington in the second game at 8:30 o'clock. Claridon, Caledonia, Kenton, Prospect and Marion-Local will meet in the first round of the tournament which will start at 7 o'clock Friday night

...TU SUCCEEDS IN ...LOCKING INJUNCTION

...Associated Press

...POLIS, Feb. 11—...the International Ty... Union have succeeded ...—for two or three ... very least—a Taft-... injunction sought ...union and its national ...

... by arguing that the ... relations board has ... intent of the Taft- ... and that the Taft- ... olates the Constitu-

...ct Judge Luther M. Swygert took those arguments under advisement yesterday. He will rule on them later, maybe next week.

The office of Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the national labor relations board, is seeking the court injunction as a temporary stop gap to prevent the ITU, in its dealings with newspaper publishers, from following policies which the Denham office has charged are unfair labor practices.

The five-man NLRB, in a case now pending, will ultimately decide whether the union is guilty.

Although the injunction hearing is off for a while, the Denham office will plow ahead in the lengthy NLRB case. Hearings before NLRB Trial Examiner Arthur Leff, which began here Dec. 9 and later shifted to Washington and Chicago, will be resumed at Chicago next Monday.

Allen Sinsheimer, prosecuting this case on behalf of Denham, said he will next offer evidence concerning ITU activities in South Bend, Ind., Hammond, Ind., Madison, Wis., and Sioux City, Ia.—also further evidence concerning Chicago, where newspaper printers from Chicago's major dailies have been on strike since Nov. 25.

The union is charged among other things with trying to renew its closed shop arrangements—under which only union printers may be hired—despite the anti-closed shop provision in the Taft-Hartley law.

FOURTEEN INITIATED AT LEGION MEETING

A class of 14 candidates was initiated at a meeting of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 182, American Legion, Tuesday night in the Legion Dugout. Two of the class were initiated by the local post for Baccara: Post No. 40 of Richwood.

In charge of the initiation were Craig Rogers, Francis Field, Ralph Carhart, Newton Cunningham, J. Albert Dripps, Ray Everett and Clifford Chapman.

Announcement was made of 25 new members signed up since the last meeting, and Mr. Chapman reported on the essay contest.

Members of the basketball team were introduced by Cloyce O'Brien, who is in charge of the team. He announced the team plans to enter the district tournament at Newark and also the local Y.M.C.A. tournament. Al McGowan, in charge of the blood bank being formed by the post, reported that 53 members have volunteered to be typed, and he urges that many more members respond for this worthy cause. A contribution was made to the Red Cross.

In keeping with Americanism week being observed this week, R. E. Copeland gave a short talk on the subject. Entertainment by Arthur Craven, a ventriloquist, followed the meeting.

STEEL UNTOUCHED BY PRICE DECLINE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—The iron and steel market is entirely untouched by the drastic slump in commodity prices, the Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly, said today.

"At the very time commodity prices were tumbling," it said, "steel demand was increasing, output had contracted due to cold weather and material shortages, and substantial purchases of steel scrap were made at the going price."

Even before special allocations to so-called essential groups, the publication reported "steel consumers are faced with a drop in their steel quotas for the second quarter."

It added, "this tightness in supplies would be increased by further drastic cuts if the nation should face a coal mine shutdown on April 1."

Coal reserves have dwindled in the extreme cold weather, the trade paper said, estimating that in the event of a coal strike several important steel companies would be forced within two or three weeks to reduce operations by as much as 50 per cent.

The publication reported scrap "easier to obtain this week at prices which steel seems willing to pay," noting that "this is an about face over conditions prevalent a few months ago."

Suggestions by consumers that scrap prices might drop in sympathy with commodities, it said, will "probably be no more than talk," adding that demand for steel is such as to support a high operating rate for some time to come. This week's operations were placed at 93 per cent of rated capacity, a drop of a point from the preceding week.

Because of a decline of $1 a ton at Philadelphia, the Iron Age scrap price composite declined 33 cents a gross ton this week to $40.50 a gross ton.

T. W. LAMONT WILLS HARVARD $5 MILLION

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—A $5,000,000 gift to Harvard—believed by university officials to be the largest single bequest ever made by a Harvard alumnus—is indicated in the will of financier Thomas W. Lamont.

Approximately $10,000,000 was willed to charitable, educational, cultural, religious and welfare institutions by the chairman of the board of J. P. Morgan and Company, who died Feb. 2 at Boca Grande, Fla.

The company here revealed details of the will, filed for probate yesterday at New York, N. Y., county seat of Rockland county.

Residue of the estate, whose total worth was not estimated, was left in trust to the widow, Mrs. Florence O. Lamont.

Upon the widow's death, the trust will be divided equally among the couple's four children, Thomas S. Lamont, Corliss Lamont, Dr. Austin Lamont and Mrs. Eleanor L. Cunningham, "and their respective issue."

Large bequests included $2,000,000 to Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H., and $1,000,000 to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

MR. K., my father's FBI aide, and Carlotta Carroll, the beautiful and charming woman whose help he had enlisted in the Count... late... problem, spoke at the protesting voice at my father's corollary to his request of her.

But I didn't," Carlotta said, and her voice was almost... shed she didn't make the suggestion, Chief," Mr. "K." hurried shortly.

My father looked at him with both eyebrows quite contracted, his inevitable reaction when anyone interrupted him, then at the twinkling eyes of the suspect in dismay.

Suppose 'K', you tell me now what, then," he said "I probably have it wrong."

"I do not. I did not make my

"No need for that now," my father said quickly. "You were right when you thought the order was calculated to send me away. Well?" Mr. "K." began, "Carlotta Carroll and I have known each other for several years. We know a good deal about each other's general work, although of course, I've never discussed specific problems with her. But she knows I am a government agent and has a pretty good idea of the kind of problems I usually handle. Her call, was unusual, to do anything I love to her a good deal of success in various problems."

"Stop running yourself down, K!" Mrs. Carroll admonished him, while I thought of the "Carlotta" which he quickly had changed to "Mrs. Carroll" when he began to speak. "You are far too modest."

My father's eyebrows began to narrow again. Mr. Carroll could not see them, seated beside him. But that Mr. "K" did, I was sure as he hurried on.

"So, when he came to me the other day, and told me of a set-up in her own country—one disturbing her a bit, I was all ears. And you can imagine my interest when I found that it fitted in with something that also was engaging the attention of the Chief.

"She has just returned from a long visit to her own country," he said, "and while there heard a good deal of interesting gossip about Otto, recreant king of Transvania, of his mistress, Laura, and of Laura's friend, what is her name, Miss Carroll?"

"Dolores Mendoza," Miss Carroll answered in the voice of a little girl reciting a history lesson.

"Otto is never discreet in his cups," the FBI man went on, "and the gossip had it that while neither Otto nor Laura could get back to Transvania for awhile, Dolores could work wires which could get not over there. There were rumors of vast hidden sums of money which she meant to try to get back to Otto, although there was no hint of where the money was hidden. Otto, poor sheer lucre, had not spilled that particular piece of information."

"I really think, my father interrupted, "that you would better take up the narrative from there. We know, of course, now that it was 'K' who suggested bringing you to me, so don't feel embarrassed on that score. But I should like to hear the rest of the story from your own lips."

"As you like," she said composedly. "You see I had known Dolores Mendoza intimately when we were young girls, and, although I never have approved of her friendship with Laura, I am broad-minded enough to ignore it, as long as she does not try to draw me inside that particular circle of her friends.

"But when I heard this gossip, I guessed something sinister was afoot, and I determined to insert a hindering thumb into Otto's Jack Horner 'pie. So I cautiously renewed my old friendship with Dolores, then got to know Laura and Otto, and did my level best to impress them with the fact that I was a first class heel, and would do any little thing from mayhem to murder, provided I were sufficiently rewarded for it.

"It took me quite a while," she finished, "but at last they trusted me, enlisted my aid, and told me so many things that my brain reeled with them."

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 — Grains plunged again today at the opening on the board of trade. Declines extending to the limit were recorded in wheat, corn, oats and soybeans.

Corn was the weakest grain. All contracts were down the eight-cent limit at the start and were unable to rise from that point during early trading. Some resistance to the decline was shown by September and December wheat, which were off only a few cents at the start.

Wheat opened 2½ to 10 cents lower, May $2.37; corn was eight cents lower, May $2.05¼, and oats were 2⅝ to six cents lower, May 97¼-96⅝. Soybeans were eight cents lower, March $3.41.

New York Stock Quotations

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—The stock market skidded again today but at a somewhat slower pace. Commodities plunged further with some grain deliveries off the allowable limits.

Share leaders extended their declines right from the start, and pear midday losses ranging from fractions to around a point were widespread. Urgent selling was lacking, although some sizable blocks changed hands. After an active opening, the ticker tape had occasional slowdowns, as selected stocks showed signs of regaining balance.

Commission houses noted that the cautious concern evidence by stock traders here was virtually worldwide, with share prices on London and other foreign exchanges slumping badly.

Depressed were International Harvester, Santa Fe, Rock Island, Northern Pacific, Pacific Western Oil, Deere, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U.S. Rubber, Woolworth, Electric Power & Light, Anaconda Copper, American Smelting, American Tobacco "B" and Southern Railway. Resistant at times were Chrysler, Gulf Oil, J. I. Case, Youngstown Sheet, Standard Oil of California, and Penney.

PRICES

trading in 1,112 issues yesterday and 936 of them declined while only 60 advanced. Stocks fell $1 to $5 a share to hit a new low since June.

The commodity skid was led by cotton and grain. Lard, cocoa, cottonseed oil, soybeans, all joined the leaders in dropping to the early limits.

Cotton experienced the sharpest break in 16 months with some deliveries down the limit of $10 a bale.

Wheat, oats, corn—all the grains—swung downward as much as limits would allow. The collapse wiped out Mondays' rallies when grain prices pushed ahead on the basis of short covering and mill buying.

Livestock prices hung around Monday's lowest figures. Fresh supplies were cut back sharply overnight.

Grain market analysts, who expected prices would stabilize in the vicinity of Monday's prices, said the new slump was caused by lack of confidence in the price level.

The violent fall in commodity and security markets boosted the chances of further retail price reductions.

STALIN BENEFITS FROM YOUTH SERUM

By International News Service

VILNNA, Feb 11 — Usually well-informed Russian sources in Vienna reported yesterday that Generalissimo Joseph Stalin is receiving rejuvenation treatments developed by a Soviet scientist who believed the normal life span could be extended to 150 years.

These sources said that the 69-year-old Soviet dictator is being given 'longevity injections" of the so-called 'ACS' serum developed by the late Prof Alexander A Bogolmetz

This scientist originated the treatment while serving as dean of the Institute of Experimental Biology and Pathology at Kiev He died some months ago, but when his serum first became known publicly Bogolmetz said that if used properly it should enable men to live for a century and a half

The Russian sources in Vienna said that Stalin took the treatment while on a prolonged vacation at the resort of Sochi on the Black sea They said that Stalin had suffered from asthma and high blood pressure caused by arterio-sclerosis

Stalin's health was reported to have improved miraculously as a result of the treatments and he then decided to continue them

The serum is designed to regenerate the connective tissues of the human body Prepared from spleen and bone marrow filtered in blood the serum first was used by Bogolmetz as far back as 1936

Correspondents who saw Stalin in Moscow on Feb 1 when he attended a session of the Soviet parliament described him as being obviously in fit condition

The official name of the Bogolmetz serum is anti-reticular cytotoxic serum
